It was officially declared today the only steps taken by the British government to prevent the landing of foreigners in the British Isles were those provided for by the sections of the aliens restriction act, the object of which was to safeguard the country against aliens from countries with which Great Britain was at war.

This declaration was made after the report had been received here that Secretary of State Bryan had cabled to the American Ambassador to investigate reports from American Consular officers on the continent that the British government had issued strict orders ferbidding the landing of foreigners on British shores until further notice, during the present war crisis.

An order in council signed by the King was published in the Gasette on August 5, limiting the entry of aliens to certain ports so that they could be subjected to examination. This order was not intended in the least to keep out Americans, it was stated, and had had no effect on the landing of Americans here.

VILLA'S COMPLETE SCHEME.

Officials of the American government have had an opportunity to examine Villa's demands, but no comment has been forthcoming from any one about them. The first point is exactly opposite from the programme which Carranza previously had announced he would follow. The entire plan as given out by close friends of Villa shows that the fighting general has drafted a scheme with which the present Federal army and especially the generals now supporting the Carbajal government are entirely in sympathy.

Officials incidentally have been advised that while the Federal army is evacuating Mexico City to allow a peaceful entry of Constitutionalists without subjecting non-combatants in the capital to the dangers of a battle, the Federal forces, estimated at 40,000, have not finally determined what to do. The Federals want guarantees, and Gen. Velasco, Minister of War to Carbajal, has intimated in an official communication to Carranza that if guarantees are not given and amnesty declared, a counter revolution undoubtedly will follow and an effort be made to join forces with Villa.

"A sacrifice, yea," Mr. Warburg replied. "I think it will be a bigger sacrifice than any of these gentlemen around the table has any idea of.

"When President Wilson asked me whether I would take this thing, and put it up to me in a very kind way." and asked whether I was willing to make the sacrifice, because I think there is a wonderful opportunity for bringing a great piece of constructive work in successful operation and it appeals to me to do that."

The present currency law, Mr. Warburg deemed superior to the Aldrich bill in that dealing with the entire country, it gives different rates of discount. while the Aldrich bill would have introduced a uniform rate of discount. The weakness of the present law, he said, lay in the fact that "the Federal Reserve Board has got to have very large powers in order to overcome the decentralization."

Throughout his examination as to various big financial deals of the last few years. Mr. Warburg refused to discuss the business affairs of his partners or to give judgment upon any of them. Questioned as to his politics he said that basicly he was a Republican, but that in the last contest he was for Wilson.

[BT A P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Aug. 12.—John P.

NEWARK (N. J.) Aug. 12.—John P.
Holland, inventor of the submarine boat which bears his name, died of pneumonia tonight at his home here after a month's illness. He was 72 years old.

Born in Ireland, Mr. Holland was a school teacher when the Merrimac and the Monitor fought their historic battile in the Civil War. He built his first submarine boat and sank it in the Passaic River when he found it was a failure.

Subsequently Mr. Holland was successful, and the United States government took over his invention.

Although a builder of war vessels, Mr. Holland was opposed to war. His idea of the usefulness of submarines was to have them incapacitate hostile ships without destroying them and their officers and crews.

CRUISER LEIPZIG IN NEED OF COAL

GERMAN CRUISER BOUND FOR SAN FRANCISCO HARBOR, SAYS REPORT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—From reports received early tonight it was learned that the German cruiser Leipsis is bound into the harbor of San Francisco for the purpose of coaling ship. However, at a late hour, marine lookouts had failed to sight the war vessel, spoken thirty-five miles from port yesterday.

Owing to a dense fog off the heads lookouts do not expect to sight the Leipsis until she is about to enter the Golden Gate, but it is believed she will arrive about midnight and will lie at anchor in the stream until morning, when the local German the Golden Gate, but it is believed she will arrive about midnight and will arive about midnight and will lie at anchor in the stream until morning, when the local German Consul formally will ask the collector of the port for the coal desired.

The British sloop of war Algerine was spoken off Cape Mendocino at 5 p.m. yesterday by the American coaster Beaver, which arrived here from Portland today. The Algerine was cleared for action, and not a sallor's head showed above the rails. The Algerine wigwagged the Beaver to approach and the two vessels lay alongside while the captains talked through megaphones for half an hour.

"For God's sake." implored the captain of the Algerine, as they parted, "don't tell the Leipzig where we are. We're too small."

On making port today Capt. Mason of the Beaver sighted the Leipzig twenty miles outside the heads, and heard her wireless talking, as he supposed, with the shore.

Good Enough

If you like to wear genuinely good clothes and like to do it at as reasonable cost as possible, don't you think this comes pretty close to accomplishing it?

With Wilson Bros.' athletic underwear at about one-third off, Wilson Bros.' silk hose six pairs for a dollar and a quarter, some of our handsome silk shirts at a fourth to a third off, a Benjamin suit at twenty to thirty per cent. off, a Bangkok hat at one-half off-wouldn't you be dressed about the best at an economical expenditure?

Your apparel would be good enough, and the cost would be low for the kind of clothing you wish to wear.

ago, the Sartori machine was halted by a punctured tire. It was an aggravating little mishap. It meant delay in a city chiefly noted for blastfurnaces and for an imposing array of fortifications looking off acrose the River Chiers towards Luxemburg and Germany.

Today, Longwy and its fortifications stand in the way of the German advance on Paris and events have so shaped themselves that the decisive battle of the war may be fought at its gates. It may even be under way at the present moment.

If the Germans should take Longwy, as they did in 1871, the way will be open to their steady progress southward, for the "long road" from the Rhine to Paris leads down through Luxemburg and just under the 409-foot plateau of "Longwy Oid Town." In effect, Longwy is the key to Paris. It is the place where the River Chiers has cleft an easy way downward from the Rhine country to the heart of France.

downward from the Rhine country to the heart of France.

JUST MISS IT.

The tour of the Los Angeles banker and his party was a remarkable one. Throughout their trip they rode just ahead of the hurricane of military wrath which was to break over Europe. Attending a dinner party at Baden-Baden, the hostess informed them of the assassination of Ferdinand of Austria. In London they heard of the declaration of Ferdinand of Austria and Servia. By Marconingram, crossing the Atlantic, came the news of the embroilment of England and Germany.

Thereafter the port lights of the Olympic, the vessel on which the Sartoris made their crossing, were extinguished and the ship at night was plunged in darkness, even the current for the berth lights being shut off. For a time, the officers of the boat were minded to put into Haljfax. But finally, it was decided to continue the run to New York, which was reached seven days out from Southampton, due to a delay at Queenstown and the necessity of slackening the vessel's speed at night.

"Looking back on our tour along the French and German frontier and into Luxemburg," said Mr. Sartori yesterday, "I can remember nothing that would lead one to surmise that matters were shaping themselves for a general European war."

"We made practically the same tour two years ago," said Mrs. Sartori, and it is an effort for him to visualize warring armies as now marching and countermarching along the same road over which he and his party were bowling a few weeks ago in an automobile.

bowling a few weeks ago in an automobile.

ENTIRELY UNFORESEEN.

Mr. Sartori also stated that the declaration of war between Austria and Servia provoked but little interest in Western Europe and that talk of a general European war was conspicuous by its absence.

"Nothing could have surprised memore than the way events have transpired in Europe," said Mr. Sartori, "it is a good deal like having peace here today, business going along as usual, and a hostile army at our door tomorrow."

Regarding the effect of the European war on financial conditions in this country, Mr. Sartori emphatically stated that we have nothing to worry about.

"Business has picked up wonderfully in the East," he said, "and there is a constantly growing feeling of (Continued on Seventh Page.)

DESPERATE SHORTAGE IN SUGAR-BEET SEED.

I telegraphic facilities, the Anaheim Sugar Company completed a deal with a Holland concern yesterday by which it secured 400 of the 900 bags of sugar-beet seed known to be high and dry above the great tidal wave of war now sweeping Europe.

The placing of this contract at prices, according to President Peck of the Anaheim company, 500 per cent above those ordinarily obtaining, emphasizes a state of affairs that is causing grave concern to those connected with, California's $15,000,000 sugar-beet industry.

Practically all the seed used in this State is produced in Austria and Russia, as the fucundity of seed grown in this country is very low. In all about 100,000 bags are imported yearly by the growers of this State.

FACTS ABOUT BUTTER

Is the best too good for the people of Los Angeles? Why should the people of this City have a lower standard for butter than in any other City of note in the United States?

In every other City in the United States a score of 93 points is required for extra creamery butter. If sanitation and cleanlines are properly considered by the dairymen and creameries, it is a simple atter to reach a score of 93 points. It is difficult to reach it other wise. Produce men know that butter to deserve the name "extra creamery butter" certainly should reach that score. The con ing public should also know it.

Should the brands of butter now on the market known "extra creamery," "highest grade," etc., reduce their standard to 90 points and still be offered as highest grade?

One fact is positive. Golden State butter will continue to man tain a score of 93 points or better.

BRYAN AND WOMEN. When Mr. Bryan came out for votes for women the press of America mostly agreed that he wanted the votes of women. The Dallas News did not wonder at this in view of the fact that he had tried the men ers three times and found them exceedunsatisfactory. The Charleston News-Courier found Bryan's suffrage declaration the most important peace treaty he had yet concluded. Obviously, if the allies had tri-umphed over the invaders the censors would not have delayed any advices to that affect. Whether or not the Germans have made any headway is not easy to determine on account of the handicaps. The inference is reasonable, from dispatches at hand, that the engagements and maneuvers now going on are merely the preliminaries of what has come to be known, now, as "the great battle." When and where it will be fought is likewise a matter of doubt. A Berlin dispatch to a London paper last night is alleged to have contained the inion that the German general staff had admitted heavy losses on the Russian border. If this is true, engagements on a larger scale than any yet reported from Germany's eastern border have either been concluded or are still in progress. Thus the greatest war in the history of the world is the one of which the least is said—or

S HELTERING THE SHIPS. "Oh, laddie, dear lad

Come under my pladie, There's plenty of room for us two." The Times is rejoiced at being able at last to credit Congress with having seized opportunity by the forelock and provided for the enactment of a wise, a patriotic and a timely law. The act which passed the House some weeks since, and which passed the Senate on Tuesday with some amendments, providing for the transfer of foreign-built vessels to American ownership and registry, needs only the concur-rence of the House in the Senate in the report of the Conference Committee, agreed on last night, and the signature of Pres dent Wilson to become a law.

Under the present law only vessels built within the United States and belonging wholly to citizens thereof are entitled to registry as vessels of the United States. The only exception is in the case of a vessel which though built in a foreign country has been wrecked in the United States, and which has been purchased and repaired by a citizen thereof, if the repairs put upon such vessel are equal to three-fourths of its value when repaired. (United States Revenue Statistics, section 4133, Smith vs. Hammond, 22. Feature case No. 13053.)

In order to obtain registry the owner must make oath that he and his co-owners -if there are others-are citizens of the United States; that there is no subject or citizen of any foreign prince of state directly or indirectly, by way of trust, confidence or otherwise inte in such vessel or in the profits or issue thereof, and that the master thereof is a under this law some years ago. A gen-tleman who was born in England and raised in Australia came to Hawaii when it was a kingdom. Under its laws any foreigner who registered as a denizen be came entitled to vote and hold office without abjuring his allegiance to his native land. By the treaty of annexation to the United States, citizens of Hawaii became citizens of the United States. This gentleman occupied the anomalous position of being both a British subject and an Ameriin and he claimed both, to the extent of drinking bitter beer and singing "God save the Queen" on Mondays, and assimilating mint juleps and whistling "Yankee Doodle" on Tuesdays. He bought a schooner, and on reregistering her made the usual oath that he was an American citizen and stated, as the law required him to do, the process by which he became so. For this he was fined $2000—the value of a small schooner he bought-and narrowly escaped conviction for perjury.

The point is not what a Hassayampan is not, but what he is. Largely he is a person of one of three characteristics. Either he works in Arizona and lives in California, works in Arizona and plays in California, or works in Arizona and maintains his family in California.

In any event the Hassayampan is purely a California asset of the golden variety and this State cherishes him and nourishes him partly to be good to him and partly because he is so good for it. Travel had reached a ridiculous apex of luxury; each new ocean liner that was built had to outdo all former efforts in providing princely accommodation and amusements princely accommodation and amusements for the voyager. Second-class travel on any modern boat is far and away superior to anything the first class had to offer fifteen years ago.

Things had come to such a pass that the best and nothing but the perfection of the best obtainable would do—and blow the expense! Every station in life was affected with the contagion of luxury and there was no maiden so lowly but that yesterday's fashions were a day too old for her and cotton stockings beneath contempt.

Even in our sicknesses the microbe of luxury has instinuated his fell influence. Illnesses were never so costly, so scientific, so utterly luxurious as they are today. Our very advent into the world had risen in cost by 200 or 300 per cent., when we were permitted to arrive at all, and the cost of keeping us in the never-never land was even more exacting.

The mere matter of making our formal debut into society had been transformed into a sort of coronation ceremony, elaborate, gorgeous, costly, and as for weddings, the luxury thereof had risen to such distant heights that old-fashioned elopements had to be revived to save the family from bankruptcy. Any wedding, as such, had an appalling standard of essentials and what was formerly considered appropriate for a wealthy celebrity had now become the minimum for plain working people.

An ordinary, modest, middle-class funeral today calls for certain expensive essentials below which it is disreputable to go. Education must include everything, each small mind must be crowded with a wealth of knowledge, untold luxury which the scholars of thirty, twenty years ago would have believed incredible.

And, like the silk stockings, this costly And, like the silk stockings, this costly learning is all too often specious, showy, woefully unserviceable. So few of us reap any real and lasting benefit from our cult of luxury. So many of us pay for it with our very souls.

Get money, by any means get money, and spend, spend, spend—that has been our creed, our all-pervading creed.

And now. This great terrifying, wonderful war will bring us to poverty. We in America shall feel it least, we in the Golden West the least of all—but we shall feel it, never fear. Mother Earth will be in deadly pain. We may designate ourselves the head of the world and smile considerably that we are outside the zone of fidently that we are outside the zone of pain, but our arms, our legs, our bodies cannot be mangled and tottured without our knowing it very poignantly. The silk-stocking era is passing, passing. Shall we whine and bemoan our fate and curse the foolhardiness of our brethren? Or shall we straighten our backs, smile proudly, don our cotton stockings and prove that no matter what our attire, we gentlemen still?

unscrupulous dealers are taking advantage of the European war to boost prices of local commodities, an investigation by the superintendent of public markets be authorized, and that purpose of boosting the prices of foodstuffs in this city. This was supplemented by additional statements in interview concerning the basis of the Dealers all contend that they are dependent on outside markets for prices of products which have advanced. Sugar dealers contend that if the war continues United States will be practically the only source of the beet sugar supply of the world, and that consequently the remaining consumption will have to be supplied by the cane product. They assert that $5 per cent. of the beet sugar output is threatened, which means over 40 per cent. of the entire sugar output of the world. They say that the United Kingdom is already drawing on this country for supplies. The advance in the other products is also ascribed to special and general conditions arising from the European conflict.

BUM START.

The Kid looked bad, very bad, in the sixth and seventh, but after that he settled down and pitched a splendid brand of ball that showed he has come back from his slump a bit stronger than he was at the height of his winning streak. Eleven innings of runless ball was the Kid's contribution after the seventh inning. He was at his best in the pinches.

Seven death-dealing double plays horned into the excitement and broke up the seven excellent chances for the winning run to be produced. Six times the Tiger defense stiffened behind a wobbling heaver and pulled off lightning double killings that smother ambitious Angel runners on their way to score. Three of these came in successive innings and problems as all inshed a hasaball record for play in the role of challengers and the United States team, composed of Maurice E. McLoughlin, R. Norris Williams, II. Thomas C. Bundy and Karl H. Behr as defenders of the trophy won from England at Wimbledon last year.

The draw for matches will bring together Williams and Wilding in the opening match at singles at 2 p.m. When this contest is completed, McLoughlin and Brookes will take the court for the second singles of the day. Friday Wilding and Brookes will meet the Americans in the doubles match and Saturday will see the singles players meeting the opponents that their teammates play tomorrow. The possession of the cup will be decided by the nation which first wins three of the five matches that compose the three days' playing programme.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the handling of both players and special stretch of turf which has been reserved for the cup play is in excellent condition. Temporary stands to accommodate 12,000 spectators have been erected, and all the seats have been sold.

Speculation on the outcome of the matches indicate that the challenging team is favored to win the cup donated by Dwight Davis of St. Louis in 1900 as an international challenge frophy. McLoughlin is the chief hope of the American team, but Williams is not unlikely to prove the key that turns to victory or defeat. Tennis experts agree that McLoughlin and Williams between them must win three of the four singles matches, since Brookes and Wilding are top-heavy

SWIMMERS WILL RACE FOR TITLES AT VENICE FRIDAY.

Tomorrow night the best swimming meet ever held in the South, from the standpoint of competition, will be held at the Venice plunge, the occasion being the races for the Southern California championships.

With Ludy Langer out of the running through the opening of the University of California, the competition promises to be very close in all of the events and the huge number of entries shows the interest now being taken in the affair.

At the present time Wally Robb has something like fifty entries on the ladies' events.

The disputed play, prompting the Pittaburgh club's protest, occurred in the sixth inning of the twenty-one-inning game played in Pittaburgh.

to say about Schang in the St. Joseph News-Press:

"The sale of Beb Schang to the Pittsburgh club was anticipated by the writer as it was known that the Pittsburgh club was angling for him for several months. It is indeed fortunate that Schang lands with Barney Dreyfuss, as that magnate will do everything in his power to help him make good in the majors. Schang is one of the most popular players who ever wore a Drummer uniform and the fans here wish him good luck with the Pirates. Schang's loss will be greatly felt by the team, although with Dave Griffith left to hold up the big end of the backstop work the Drummers will still not be weak in that department by any means."

WALTS DOUBLE. Walter Carlisle sent three Tiger runners hooting and howling across the plate with a long two-base hit between Ellis and Maggert. He had established a three-run lead that looked considerably ominous to the Angel fans.

looked considerably ominous to the Angel fans.

The unsteady score was shifted to a 7-to-8 basis by Los Angeles activities later in the sixth. Ehmke was eradicated by three White strikes. In his elation the doctor walked Wolter. Metzger forced his team-mate at second, but that base was soon occupied by the Dutchman, when Maggert poled a single to left. Abstein mustered his fourth single, scoring Metzger. Ellis followed closely with a drive to right, counting Maggert and the eminent physician passed out of the ball game. Speck Harkness stalked into service and Moore was killed off at first by Leard.

BAYLESS AGAIN. BAYLESS AGAIN.

BAYLESS AGAIN.

The 3-to-6 score and setting for Meek's home run was effected by Bayless's double in the seventh and Borton's fourth straight hit. That was the last run made off Ehmke.

Then followed in quick succession Dad Meek and his home run, which tied the score, nine innings more of wonderful baseball, six more double plays, some rattling good pitching by Ehmke, a dozen chances to score that were stopped by these same double plays, and a lot more excitement and stuff that couldn't be told in volumes and than Billy Phyle Jerked off his mask and called the finest baseball battle we have had in a long while on account of darkness.

Leard whacked a single to left in that inning and went to third on Meloan's hit. With no one out and Bayless up, the kid's back was forced against the wall and he fought those of nerve that won him the friendship of nerve that won him the friendship of every fan in the park. He got two strikes on Dick and then forced him to hit.

AT BRANCH RICKEY.

sause Bill Carrigan beat Branch spite the fact that the lanky left-hander has not yet done much for the Red Sox. The Boston Herald's taff man had this to say following Sunday's show in St. Louis: "President Lannin of the Red Sox taked as if he had received the short end of the recent Vean Gregg deal with the Cleveland club. I wish Rickey had been able to use the same methods in dealing with the Cleveland owners as you did, said President Hedges of the Browns to the Red Sox owner. Rickey went to Cleveland yeaterday in an effort to turn a deal, but the Boston trade evidently has the Nap magnates leary of other bidders for talent."

SEPARATED from her maid, distraught through worriment over the plight of relatives left behind, and surprised that her Fatherland, Austro-Hungary, had kicked up such a fuss in Europe, Miss Mizzi Hajos, the creator of Sari in Henry W. Savage's musical comedy of that name, returned to New York yesterday aboard the Olympic, after a week of such expériences sa can only happen during war time.

Miss Hajos is vitally interested in the whole trouble, first, because her parents and two brothers are now in the heart of the war zone, and second, because he is of that Hungarian temperament which is always patriotic. If she had been a man it is certain she would have been a soldier, for her eyes glistened yesterday as she told of the adventures she had in reaching London and the stant liner that was to bring her to New York. "You see" said Miss Hajos, "every-body had a terrible time trying to reach a steumer, so my experiences are only typical of what all endured. And conditions must be very much worse now, for, even when I sailed last Friday there was little excitement in London and almost everybody be lieved that the entire trouble would be smoothed out.

"My trip to London makes me shiver, for I was days in making ft by automobile, carriage and such trains as I could get. I first left in a car, way soldiers, who seemed to be everywhere. Miss Hajos then told of the trip across and said that many of the passengers aboard were greatly scared at the wireleas messages that came aboard telling of the involvement of the nations. A report spread about the liner, she said, that gunboats were convoying the Olympic and the passengers spent hours in trying to make them out on the horizon. On Monday night all lights were ordered out, she said, and the passengers were given their choice of doing without light or having the portholes in the cabins closed. Many of them, including herself, preferred to go without light.

As soon as Miss Hajos beat everyone else down the gangplank, she rushed to a cable office and started sending cables to her parents and brothers in an effort to find out whether or not they are safe. Her two brothers are both reservists and are probably already on the battle field.
After failing to get replies, Miss Hajos then sent a long message to the priest of her childhood, hoping that he may tell her they are safe. She had expected to find messages from them when she landed.
Miss Hajos came back solely to Ball Room Dancing

Miss Hajos came back solely to start rehearsals again for her delight-ful part in "Sari," in which she will be again starred throughout the coun-try this season.

The report states that there was an overcharge of $305.10 reporting the case of Burr L Harris, the negre who murdered Mra. Rebecca P. "Of the truth of this, there is not the shadow of a doubt. Our common sense tells us that the daily swallowing of caffeine (the alkaloid in tea and coffee,) powerfully affecting heart and brain—is followed by nervous depression, and finally by more or less disastrous results.
